At this point the responses are academic; the SEE is terminated. The question before us is EBR as proposed an appropriate remedy for the large quantity of NAPL still remaining? Does this represent a fundamental change to the 2012 RODA? How do we respond?

I just skimmed it, but I don't think it provides any new information from what was already said on the calls.

FYI – This is USAF response to ADEQ comments submitted Feb. 11, 2016. This copy is for your info. To provide completeness. I have asked Bo Stewart and Steve Willis (UXO Pro) to provide a comment evaluation as part of the procedural process since this site may be contested. But the evaluation is not necessarily an issue re-opener or a main point to begin an official dispute.
